Afternoon Tea

On January 11th we will be introducing afternoon Tea at The Marsh Cat.

This gorgeous 'meal' will be served between 2.30 & 4 Wednesday to Saturday.

Lovely finger sandwiches, scones and cakes with tea or coffee. There will also be the option of a glass or two of bubbly.

£9.95 pp

As an introductory offer, during January if you mention 'special tea offer' when booking you will receive 10% off ☺

Afternoon tea is a small meal snack typically taken between 2 and 5pm. The custom of afternoon tea originated in England in the 1840's. The upper classes typically ate luncheon at noon and dinner at 8pm, where the lower classes ate luncheon at 11am and dinner at 7pm. For both groups, afternoon tea filled a gap. The custom spread throughout the British Empire and beyond in succeeding decades. However, changes in social customs and working hours mean that most 21st century Britons will rarely 'take' afternoon tea if at all. So lets bring back this truly wonderful tradition and maybe skip a meal somewhere else in the day!!!!
